“ I met Andy through my brother and he was the sweetest man I know. He cared so much and love to listen. He told the best stories. When we were losing my dad he called and made sure we knew that he was here for us. Heaven gained another angel and we will miss him always.

Andy was a good man. He knew my step father and did some work for him. That's how I got to know him. He also helped me install a furnace in my house. RIP Andy. You will be missed.

“ We crossed paths with Andy 25 years ago when he bought a Skipper sailboat we were selling at our yard sale (that he spotted while driving by). He said he had the same beloved boat that was in far worse shape and would use this one to sail, and his old one for parts. As far as I knew he used it for many years after. From that moment on Andy became our friend (and much needed plumber for us and some of our family).

We are truly blessed to have known Andy. He was a good man and although we didn't see him often, when we did cross paths it was always a pleasure to talk with him as he clearly loved talking about God, his family, or sharing some piece of wisdom or advice. We loved him and will miss him dearly.

Our deepest condolences to Andy's family-
